

FREEZEMACHINE

ABOUT

Freezemachine is a heavy alternative rock band from Long Beach, California, spearheaded by frontman Jordan Schmidt. Drawing inspiration from iconic bands like Deftones, Spiritbox, Jimmy Eat World, Nirvana, Architects, My Bloody Valentine, and Slowdive, Freezemachine's distinctive sound is a fusion of the broad spectrum of Nu Metal, Metalcore, and Post-Punk that often goes against traditional rock styles, while at the same time being an immersive, heavy, yet catchy and melodic experience.

To bring that vision to life, Freezemachine worked with Grammy-nominated, multi-platinum producer Drew Kapner, known for work with Twenty One Pilots and At The Drive-In, while final mastering support came from Grammy-winning engineer Mike Bozzi, whose credits include Linkin Park and Kendrick Lamar. The result is a sound that feels both raw and refined—heavy, emotional, and built to leave an impact.

Since their debut, Freezemachine has built momentum through a growing run of singles including Thought You Knew, Edge Of A Knife, It's All Over, Give Up The Ghost, New Life, and Fallen Garden. Across these releases, the band has continued to expand its reach with strong streaming growth, playlist support, and visual content that highlights both their aggression and atmosphere, while simultaneously introducing a "Disco-metal" groove with pummeling choruses that are sure to freeze into your brain.
